

How to Use Syllabus

What is syllabus?

A syllabus is created in order to familiarize the students with the class policy and learning schedule. It can be considered a “contract” that both students and faculty must comply with. Students are encouraged to utilize the syllabus not only at the time of course registration but throughout the lecture period, as a tool to study systematically toward accomplishing the goals set by each course.

If you know the name of the subject that you want to read the syllabus, you can search for it directly by entering the name in the “Subject name” field.

If you enter an instructor’s name in the “Subject name” field, you will get the list of subjects taught by the instructor. If you search by the instructor’s full name, put a space (full-width or half-width) between the family name and the given name.

You can also do a keyword search to find subjects that are related to keywords of your interest. For example, if you are interested in finance and civil law, enter “finance civil law” in the subject name field to search for subjects that include both finance and civil law in the syllabus.

<概要/Course Content Summary >

This is an introductory-level course that considers Japanese culture from a variety of disciplines from the humanities. We will pay close attention to the structures underpinning the visible transformations in modern Japan (such as identifying as much as possible the connections between social-cultural areas such as dining, housing, and entertainment) and political/economic areas in areas such as labor, finance, and trade).

<到達目標/Goals, Aims >

Students will gain a fuller understanding of Japanese culture and the connections between cultural, economic, social, and political areas. It is also intended to provide students with a sense of how Japanese culture is discussed and studied in English at academic institutions outside of Japan.

The syllabus contains the following information in the respective sections.

【Course Content Summary】

The overall content, aim, keywords, and how classes will be conducted are described here, including prerequisite and co-requisite courses, required knowledge and skills.

【Goals, Aims】

The knowledge, skills and learning attitude that students are expected to acquire through the course are described here.

【Schedule】

Here you can check the planned content for each class, assignments required outside of class each week and the estimated time necessary for the assignments.

【Evaluation Criteria】

The weight of each evaluation item in the final grade, points of evaluation and the method of feedback on examination results are shown here.

【Textbooks/Reference Books/URLs】

Textbooks and reference books used in class and website URLs to be referred to are listed.

For books marked , you can click on the link to jump to DOORS and check the availability in the library.

【Remarks】

Additional information including how to contact the instructor is indicated here.

※As the Standards for Establishing Universities stipulate that “a class subject for one credit shall normally be organized to contain contents that require 45 hours of learning,” 90 hours of learning is required in order to obtain two credits. In addition to the 30 hours of learning in class, the remaining 60 hours need to be fulfilled through learning outside of class. Assignments to be done outside of class as shown in the syllabus are the minimum amount of learning required by the instructor and the estimated time, which may not add up to 60 hours. In that case, students' independent and active engagement in learning outside of class is expected.
